Introduction
The Library staff welcomes you to the Southwestern Community College Library! We are located on the south end of campus in The Pines, an attractive energy-efficient building of approximately 11,000 square feet. The facility includes the college library, with capacity shelving for 40,000 volumes and seating for 120 people. The building houses the library book collection, a computer lab with Internet access at 24 workstations, plus online resources, periodicals, audiovisuals, a conference room for small group work, and other college offices.

This handbook is intended to assist users in locating books and other learning materials and to acquaint them with library policies and procedures. The staff will be happy to provide assistance in the use of the library. "Just ask!"

Library Mission Statement
The purpose of the Library is to provide a multimedia center designed to support and implement the total instructional program of the college. The Library’s chief aim is to contribute to the realization of the institution’s objectives by acquiring, organizing and circulating the books, periodicals, audiovisuals, online resources, and materials needed to support the instructional programs of the college; to provide a variety of learning and study options; to provide instruction in the use of resources; and to promote the cultural development of library users.

Locating Resources: Books
WebCat is the online library catalog for SCC as well as the North Carolina Community College System, known collectively as CCLINC (Community College Libraries In NC). In WebCat, one can search the library collection of the local community college or search all 44 CCLINC library collections at once. Books owned by other community colleges may then be requested by mail. (see "Interlibrary Loan") No password is necessary to search WebCat. Anyone may search WebCat at any time, from any Internet computer, whether on or off campus!
How to use WebCat:
1. In the Internet browser address bar, enter: www.southwesterncc.edu/library
2. Click the WebCat link under “BOOKS” on the Library homepage.
3. In the drop-down list of CCLINC libraries, select Southwestern Community College.
4. The next screen is WebCat’s search engine for SCC Library books and audiovisuals. Enter keywords or phrase in the box, be sure of spelling, then click the “Search” button. A drop-down list can be used for searching by exact author, title, subject, or series.
5. On the “Search Results” screen, there will be up to 20 titles per page. Each item is listed with a call number above the title. (example: 610.73 N) Make a note of call numbers and titles of books you wish to find on the shelves. All library books will have a call number label on the spine, so they can be located quickly on the shelves. For more information about a specific title, click the “Details” button beside it.

Call Numbers and Classification of Book Collections
If library books are to be found easily, it is necessary to arrange them on the shelves according to some system. All items in our collection are arranged by the Dewey Decimal System, which organizes similar subjects together using call numbers assigned by librarians. The call number label on each book represents the main subject of that book. Usually, books on similar subjects will have similar call numbers and be shelved close together.

The Dewey Decimal System is divided into ten main classes:

- 000-099 General Works (books covering many subjects; includes encyclopedias and bibliographies)
- 100-199 Philosophy and Psychology
- 200-299 Religion and Mythology
- 300-399 Social Sciences (sociology, economics, law, government and education)
- 400-499 Language
- 500-599 Pure Sciences (mathematics, chemistry, physics, biology, etc.)
- 600-699 Applied Science (nursing, electronics, food service, business and building trades)
- 700-799 Arts and Recreation
- 800-899 Literature
- 900-999 Geography, Biography and History

Our General Collection includes most non-fiction books that can be checked out. The call number should include a classification number followed by the first letter of the author’s last name. For example, the call number of a book on nursing by Iris Long might look like this: 610.73 L

The Reference Collection includes a variety of specialized books for research, plus encyclopedias, dictionaries, handbooks, atlases and more. They function as the backbone of the research process. Reference books may not be checked out because it is important that all library users can rely on finding them here. These books will have an “R” above the call number:
The North Carolina Collection includes writing by North Carolina authors as well as literature about North Carolina. They can be checked out. Books in this collection have an “N” above the call number:

N 973.54

Novels are shelved in the Fiction Collection and labeled with an “F” for fiction, then the first letter of the author’s last name. For example, a novel by Ernest Hemingway would be labeled:

F. H.

In addition, fiction is shelved alphabetically by the author’s last name (so that all Hemingway novels will be grouped together, not scattered throughout the F.H. section).

Story books for young children have a “J” before the call number and are known as the Juvenile Collection.

The Audiovisual Collection is cataloged in the same manner as books with the type of media appearing as part of the call number. For example:

Video Tape

Library staff will be glad to show you the location of your books after you have found the call numbers and titles in the WebCat library catalog. Please feel free to ask for help in the use of WebCat if you have questions.

Interlibrary Loan Services: Books or Articles

Interlibrary Loan (ILL) is a service that allows users to borrow materials not owned by the SCC Library but available from another library’s collection. Any registered SCC library user, who has no overdue checkouts on their account, can request books or articles by Interlibrary Loan.

Ask a librarian if you need to make an interlibrary loan request. Requests for books can be made from libraries all across the state or even out-of-state. Renewals will be possible only as the lending library permits. Usually there is no charge for any ILL request. However, if materials are lost or damaged, the user will be billed for the replacement cost.

There are three different Interlibrary Loan services:
- WebCat: books from CCLINC community college libraries
- WorldCat: books owned by all types of libraries worldwide
- MCLN: journal articles from 15 local college libraries

Always search for Southwestern holdings in WebCat first. If a book is not available at Southwestern, then WebCat can be searched using the ”All Libraries” setting. A librarian can demonstrate how to enter interlibrary loan requests in WebCat. Experienced users can place their own requests from home! Interlibrary loans from WebCat lenders usually arrive by mail in 7 to 14 days.

If a particular book is needed and is not found at any library in WebCat, then it is useful to search in WorldCat, which is a combined database of library catalogs worldwide. Once the specific title and
The Library subscribes to about 200 magazines, journals and newspapers. Students, faculty and staff may utilize our computer lab network for research and academic purposes.

Locating Resources: Periodicals
The Library subscribes to about 200 magazines, journals and newspapers. The current issue of each is shelved alphabetically by title on the racks near the circulation desk. Periodicals are a very important part of the library collection. They contain the most current information available in print; as such, they provide an essential component in the academic research process.

Unbound Periodicals
When a current magazine or journal issue has been replaced, the older issue is then moved to the shelf sections labeled “Back Issues.” This section contains issues published during the current year and the previous calendar year.

Bound Periodicals
Bound periodicals are shelved between the Back Issues section and the Reference books.

Microfilm
The Library holds back issues of approximately 170 periodical titles on microfilm. The microfilm is alphabetically arranged in cabinets, and a reader-printer is located nearby. Any staff member will be glad to demonstrate how to use the reader-printer machine. Printed copies cost 10 cents per page.

Indexes for Periodicals
An index must be used to locate articles on any chosen subject. The Library receives three periodical indexes in print format, shelved in the Reference Collection:
- Cumulative Index to Nursing and Allied Health Literature (CINAHL)
- Education Index
- Reader’s Guide to Periodical Literature

NC LIVE (North Carolina Libraries for Virtual Education)
NC LIVE is an online collection of indexes to periodicals and research materials. It is comprised of over 100 information databases that offer indexes to more than 15,000 full-text periodical titles, e-books and research sources. NC LIVE is made available to all state residents via Internet connections in public libraries, community college libraries, university and independent college libraries. These high-quality research materials include:
- Magazine & journal articles
- National and local newspapers
- Professional and business journals
- Research articles
- Publications and reference sources of academic interest

Quality research titles are indexed on NC LIVE, and when full-text articles are available online, research time is greatly reduced. Citations or the full-text articles may be e-mailed to a home computer. or printed at the library.

NC LIVE can be found locally at www.southwesterncc.edu/library on the Internet. Look for the NC LIVE link and click on it. Any on-campus computer can provide access without a password. Password-protected remote access is available to all registered library users for their home computers. Ask a Library staff member about receiving the password. The N.C. General Assembly and N.C. independent colleges and universities provide the funding for NC LIVE resources and make them available to all registered users of North Carolina libraries. NC LIVE passwords are also available through area public libraries.

Internet Access and Computer Lab Resources
Students, faculty and staff may utilize our computer lab network for research and academic purposes. These computers are equipped with Windows operating software, Internet access, Microsoft Office 2000, and more. A centrally located laser printer and two scanners are available for students’ convenience.

Acceptable Use Policy: Academic Computer Lab
Internet computers are provided for library-related learning, research and information. Time may be limited if others are waiting. Users are expected to be computer literate before attempting to use these computers. All computer users are expected to bring their own floppy disks to save their work. All users of electronic information resources are expected to use these resources in a responsible manner, consistent with the educational and informational purposes for which they are provided and to follow the Library’s basic rules and regulations. No Internet chat or gaming sessions will be allowed. Users may not engage in any activity that is disruptive to other library users.
